

He Isn't One of Us!

The Tim Burns for Congress website proudly posts this entry from blogger dawnrager.com: "He isn't one of us" (Tim Burns)...You're right! As JARI launches a campaign touting the work ethic of our area work force, the Burns campaign thinks otherwise:

" Western Pennsylvania was once driven by a hardworking middle class of blue-collar, industrial workers who gave their blood, sweat and tears to make our area great. At one time, we were one of the most successful steel production areas of the country and the world! Somehow, we've exchanged our hardworking history and mentality for the "gimme" attitude and we've allowed the spirit of the American Dream to die within our hearts here....Shame on us, I often wonder what our hard-working ancestors and immigrants would say if they could see us now...?!.....Perhaps WE HAVE become an area which is comfortable taking hand-outs...I hope and pray not...."

Mr. Burns, please stop disrespecting the hard working people of this district: defense industry workers, health care workers, dairy workers, law enforcement officials, teachers, steel workers and all those folks who shed blood sweat and tears every day to feed their families. Of course, your former business was head-quartered in Moon Township, not in the 12th, so how can we expect you to understand the determination of workers in the Critz district. The voters of this district have proudly denied you membership in the Beltway Country Club. I know you may wish to out-source the voters of the 12th District but we will not be silenced. We have found a voice that speaks for us and his name is Congressman Mark Critz.
